Keeping in touch...

Welcome back from the cold Winter Break! We hope you all had a fun filled break with family and friends.

It is important that we continue to take care of our bodies by dressing properly for our outdoor time. When there is extreme cold weather our students will be involved in structured and unstructured physical activities either in the classroom or the gym.

As the students continue to explore their environment we will continue to foster their learning through inquiry and activities.

We will like to encourage our families to continue to inquire about your child's time with us, sharing ideas, comments and resources will benefit all of us.

Building and Imagination

Wow the joy of have a new manipulative toy brought out the students imagination through their building skills. One of the students Angus who really love this toy was able to show some of the other students how to use the materials to design/create. It was great to see his leadership skills as he helped his classmates. The smiles shows how proud they are of their work!

Our students are learning the importance of working together with a goal in mind. At the beginning they learn to communicate their ideas and even though it was a bit unfamiliar, they worked together to complete their work, creation or structure.
